From the Head of School

The 2014-2015 school year was a huge success on many levels. Academically, our model of progressive education continues to thrive as our children succeed in a setting that acknowledges who they are as people and embraces their interests. Working with our passionate and skilled teachers, our students learned how to harness their talents and apply them to a wide range of challenges—be it learning how to make friends in PreK, how to read in first and second grades or tackle a complex algebra problem in middle school. Equally important, our children learned what is means to be compassionate and caring people who think about others and their role in creating a just and fair classroom and society.

In order to have a healthy and vibrant school, we also need to be financially sound. To accomplish this, we asked everyone in our community to Play a Role. This took many forms from parents opening their homes for admission events, to donating time and expertise on committees and by giving generously. The results of our efforts were historic—in the fall, we asked our parents to help spread the word about Fayerweather through a Word of Mouth campaign which resulted in an astounding 44% increase in applications. At the same time our annual fund captains rallied us not only to meet our financial goal of $180,000, but to significantly increase our participation level. By April break 91% of families had made a gift (up from 68% the previous year) raising $210,000 in the process! Our Midwinter Revel celebrated the performing arts at FSS and raised $130,000 for our Sound and Light project. Our 3rd annual Art of Craft was also a success, with more than 100 parents volunteering to make the day memorable. Combined, both events raised $46,535 to support our financial aid program. In addition to these annual events and initiatives, FSS was fortunate to receive its single largest one time gift from the Cosinuke family, who graduated their youngest of three children last year.

This past spring our graduating eighth grade class was accepted to 13 different independent schools and this fall, they enrolled in 14 public and independent schools. Many are close by at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School, Buckingham Browne & Nichols, Concord Academy, Cambridge School of Weston, and Boston University Academy. Others are farther afield to Milton and Phillips Andover. And still others are as far away as Indonesia. Our alums entering college this fall headed to a variety of schools including American University, Brown, Brandeis, Cooper Union, NYU and Wesleyan. No matter where their paths lead, they will surely bring with them their Fayerweather fire. They have all of you to thank for Playing a Role in providing a unique and meaningful start to their educational journey. So please, take a bow! And, thank you.

Edward Kuh
Head of School
From the Board of Directors

As Fayerweather approaches its 50th anniversary, to be celebrated by the school community during the 2017-18 academic year, we are beginning to reflect on FSS’s fascinating past, its vibrant present, and its exciting future. As we look back, we will also look ahead, as we invite the community to participate in crafting a five-year Strategic Plan for FSS. We embark on that planning process with energy and optimism, because of the foundation of commitment that Fayerweather’s students, teachers, staff, and families have created over the school’s history.

Each year, the Annual Fund is the school’s primary fundraising initiative. Funds raised through our annual campaigns keep tuition down, sustain and grow our commitment to financial aid, and provide our teachers with the resources and professional development training that they need to enhance the school’s curriculum. The Annual Fund is a critical piece of FSS’s budget, without which the rich learning experience valued by Fayerweather families, for nearly 50 years, simply would not be possible.

Last year, the Fayerweather community gave to the Annual Fund in an unprecedented way. More families donated than ever before, and our Annual Fund total reached an all-time high. That level of commitment is necessary to sustain and augment the school’s operations each year. It also provides the budgetary foundation for the aspirations that we will discuss this year during the strategic planning process. The progress that FSS has made in solidifying the Annual Fund, through the outpouring of support from our extended community, allows us to look toward the future from a position of budgetary strength.

On behalf of the Board and the Development Committee, thank you for all of the ways that each of you contributes to our shared mission. We truly value every hour that you spend volunteering for FSS, and every dollar that you donate to make Fayerweather the very special place that it is today. Your ongoing support allows all of us to imagine what FSS can be in future years.

With gratitude,

Julia Cavanaugh

We are pleased to submit Fayerweather Street School’s financial report for 2014-2015. It was another strong year from the perspective of finance and operations.

- We operated in the black for the 10th consecutive year. On total revenues of $5,992,272, we had total expenses of $5,848,305, with a net surplus of $143,967.
- We awarded more financial aid ($903,454) than ever before.
- We kept tuition increases to 2.5%—the lowest increase in more than a decade.
- We invested significantly in our building, including a new roof, new windows, and new energy efficient LED lights: a total of $276,000 in capital replacements and improvements.
- We made a $200,000 pay-down on our mortgage. This not only added $200K to our equity in our building, but saved us more than $10,000 a year in interest expenses.
- We achieved all of this while keeping teacher salaries and benefits competitive, and investing more in staff professional development than ever before.

In short, we had the financial resources that we needed, not only to achieve our educational mission for the year, but also to invest in our own future. Our balance sheet—like our building—is in better shape now than it was a year before.

There were some challenges, to be sure. The historic winter of 2015 forced us to spend more on snow removal than budgeted. The stock market tremors in the summer of 2015 led to capital losses in the Fayerweather Educational Foundation—our endowment. These events reduced our surplus by almost $100K. However, we were able to absorb those losses and stay in the black.

Undergirding the positive financial results was one of the most successful years the school has had from a development perspective. We achieved new benchmarks for the Annual Fund (both in terms of total giving and participation). We raised more than $100,000 for the Sound and Light project. Best of all, we received the biggest single gift in the school’s history: a contribution of $233,000 from former long-time Fayerweather parents Rob Cosinuke and Jennifer Krier.

While tuition is the biggest income source for FSS, it was, once again, the generous philanthropy of our community that made it possible for us to invest confidently, not only in our present, but in our future.

We are deeply indebted to our previous Treasurer, Rachael Burger, and all the members of our board and finance committee who understand their fiscal stewardship roles well, and provide thoughtful guidance throughout the year. Most of all, we thank each one of you for your continued commitment to Fayerweather as a school and a community!

Historic Giving: The Cosinuke Family

Over the last few years, Fayerweather has undergone some significant and notable changes. Some have been more visible than others; such as the new playground, mosaic donor wall and the revamped learning garden. While other successes have been more ‘behind the scenes.’ One such milestone happened in 2014 when FSS became the recipient of the largest single gift in the school’s history: $233,000 from the Cosinuke family.

The Cosinukes—Rob, Jennifer, Abby ’08, Willa ’11 and Gus ‘14—have been part of the Fayerweather community since 1999. In that time, Rob and Jennifer have been active in the life of the school, in and outside of the classroom. Whether it’s volunteering at events (like building the set for the Unit play), attending alumni events, or Rob’s ongoing service as a member of the Board of Trustees, the Cosinuke family was, and still is, integrally involved with Fayerweather. Their enthusiasm for and commitment to the school has not wavered over the years.

With their children at varying stages in their educational journey—Abby, a senior at Colorado College; Willa, a college freshman at The Cooper Union, and Gus, a sophomore at Concord Academy—it’s remarkable that they chose to invest their resources in Fayerweather. Rob tells us “Fayerweather’s progressive values, community spirit, and child-centered approach” resonated with his own wonderful educational journey through The School in Rose Valley, a highly progressive school in Philadelphia, and later, Quaker High School and College. Jennifer, who moved around a lot and attended multiple schools as a child and teenager, always valued Fayerweather teachers’ commitment to “getting” their students, and believes this helps even young Fayerweather students know who they are, what they care about, and how they might make a difference in the world.

Their gift, along with the contribution of time and generosity of countless parents and supporters in our community, has positioned us to grow, to enhance the quality of a Fayerweather education, and to fulfill our mission of providing a Fayerweather education for generations to come.

thank you!

Among the many highlights of this year’s annual Midwinter Revel, was the addition of FSS alumni performing vignettes from past Unit plays. Characters from Sadako, The Tempest, Midsummer Night’s Dream and The Rememberer were resurrected to celebrate and highlight the purchase of a much-needed new sound and light system.

The Horizon Fund, created in 2007, supports a range of professional enrichment opportunities for faculty and staff. It serves two functions: supplementing and funding program projects that exceed the scope of the program, and rewarding service and dedication by underwriting projects that allow staff to grow, learn, and renew. In 2007, the first recipients, fifth and sixth grade teachers, visited South Africa as part of a two-week seminar that supported their middle passage curriculum. Since then, the Horizon Fund has allowed teachers to: learn Haitian Kréyol, study with authors and musicians, travel to East Africa and our sister school in Maténwa, Haiti, and provided time for our art and woodshop teachers to work on their own art.

In 2015, Chela Badell-Watson, Spanish teacher, and Kevin Clark, PreK teacher, were awarded funds to take courses in their field of interest. Chela traveled to Denver, CO over the summer to attend a week-long Organic World Language (OWL) workshop, and Kevin attended a writing conference titled Extending Our Image of Children: New Possibilities for Writers.

OWL is a teaching methodology that focuses on student empowerment, kinesthetic engagement, and community building to fuel second language acquisition. Chela explains “Having used OWL before, I was able to immediately see the benefits that it brings to all my students; they are more eager to communicate and use the language in a more natural way. I can’t wait to implement these techniques and strategies that elicit such high levels of student-production. The methodology is so in tune with our Fayerweather approach of always seeking innovative and effective ways of educating our children.”

Kevin’s two-day conference considered the question: What conditions support the young writers we work with in their efforts to develop as authors, meaningmakers, and communicators? Featured guest speaker, Matt Glover, author of Already Ready, Projecting Possibilities for Writers, and Engaging Young Writers, spoke about the image of young children as writers and the value of mentor texts to support children’s identification as authors.

The conference was hosted by the Opal School in Portland, OR. Influenced by the Reggio Emilia approach and inquiry-based learning, the Opal School is renowned for combining literacy and arts in what they call “Story Workshop.” Part of the conference experience was to explore the classrooms at the Opal School and consider how environment and materials support young writers and storytellers.
Fayerweather welcomed hundreds of people to enjoy food, live music, shopping and fun! Proceeds from the event supported the arts program at the school.

From the Development Office

This past school year was an exceptionally successful fundraising year for Fayerweather. With such success, it might be easy to overlook the deeper meaning and impact such achievements have for our community. This is especially true when the programs and events raised the money needed, we had plenty of volunteers, and all the people involved had a wonderful time. Working together, we made it look easy!

Meeting goals is absolutely imperative, but what is the impact on our community? Exceeding expectations feels wonderful, but is the greatest reward simply the financial gain?

In the Development Office, this question is answered when we choose photos for our publications. When reviewing files of images, we are met with many smiling faces—in the classrooms, on the playground, in our afterschool programs and during special events. Our community is filled with people fully engaged in the life of the school; people intentionally playing a role in ensuring Fayerweather students receive a rich and comprehensive education. This is what reaching our goals allows us to do.

So when you see someone smiling as you walk down the hallway, give one in return. Because chances are, you are smiling at an educator, parent, or student who is actively committed to making Fayerweather what it is today, and who is engaged in building our successes into the future. As we gear up for our 50th anniversary year, 2017-2018, we will be able to look back and see a string of goals met and exceeded. With each of these illuminated by the smiles of the people who committed their time, finances and energy to the goal that really matters: the development of our students as they explore, create, analyze, and define what is interesting to them. Through your financial support, each of you played a role in linking our educational programs to the values we have as a community.

Our goals for next year are simple; to continue to make it possible for all of us to keep forming deep, meaningful relationships so that the smiles are easy and genuine when we greet each other. Tell authentic stories that highlight and strengthen Fayerweather’s narrative. And continue to reflect on how to be purposeful members of this community, as we strive to make a difference for our school. Together, I have every confidence we will meet these goals.
